PROFILE

In my research, I focus on European Employment Law, specifically comparing the French, British and European legal systems. I employ both comparative and historical methodologies for conducting socio-legal studies related to the occupational health and safety (OHS) in the European Union. My research explores the possibility of global OHS legal reform at the European scale. In this respect, my aim is to examine what the role of the European Union (EU) in the European level regulation of Occupational Health and Safety (OHS) might be in the context of crisis.
